Election Candidates Explain Platforms In Forum Assembly

By Larry Wright
Asst. News Editor

Speaking in both the forum assembly and free forum Tuesday, candidates for ASBYU offices exposed their platform to careful scrutiny. The candidates for AWS presented first.

"I will provide every woman student an opportunity for growth," said Joyce Pritchett. Her opponent, Jane McKnight, promised, if elected AWS president, "to attack AWS problems in the try angle."

Steve Gulbranson, running for academics VP, said he will "increase the scope and quality of makers at BYU."

The opposing candidate, Todd Ristofferson, said he has "found real administrative support computerized registration."

ATHLETICS

Don Wood and Terrell Hunt campaigned for Vice-President Athletics.

Hunt advocated "spontaneous pop rallies and a yell-leading clinic to improve yell."

Wood said he would "increase student awareness of athletic facilities" and work to make a "much-needed" fieldhouse a reality.

Kim Cameron, candidate for Culture VP, said BYU needs such cultural presentation as an "intercollegiate jazz festival." Opposing Cameron is Steve Finlayson, who said, "We want to initiate an IBM talent file."

FINANCE

Campaigning for Finance V.P., Harmon J. Hurten said, "I believe student funds should be spent on student organizations." Bill Hepworth expressed the desire to "continue to print the budget."

Jeff Tanner, running for Social VP, said he "hopes to have beach parties at the lake." Jim Chaplin stressed the need for "greater emphasis on stage events."

Running for Student Relations VP are John Updike and

Darrell Jones. Updike declared his "dedication" to see that student wages reflect "student worth." Jones felt it "would be advantageous if girl students had in their possession a BYU Consumers' Guide."

PRESIDENTIAL

The two candidates for ASBYU President spoke last. "I think we want to investigate areas like housing and wage rates," said Grant Richards. "We will have a student body officer for the purpose of listening to complaints and presenting them to the Executive Council."

Steve Glenn, a nominee for ASBYU President in last week's primary elections, introduced Richards' opponent, Merwin Grant.

"Every promise I made when I campaigned for Social Vice-President has been fulfilled," said Merwin Grant. "We need to promote BYU to the world."

Elections will continue today and Thursday.

Bishops To Receive Entertainment Feast

BYU will roll out the entertainment red carpet at Thursday's Bishops and Stake Presidents Day Assembly.

The 10 a.m. assembly in the Smith Fieldhouse will be especially designed to acquaint bishops, stake presidents and other conference visitors with the "Sulri" of the Y.

Following the assembly, 11 a.m. classes will be dismissed so that students may meet with their church leaders from home.

WILKINSON

President Ernest L. Wilkinson will give a brief address. Also featured on the program will be the Symphony Orchestra, directed by Ralph Laycock, and the International Folk Dancers under the direction of Mary B. Jensen.

The Dramatic Arts Department will present a scene from "The Rivalry," directed by Charles L. Metten Roy and June Mayor, national balloon dance champions, will perform.

Rounding out the program will be numbers from the Male Chorus, under the baton of Dr. Ralph Woodward, and the balloon dance team.

BYU Food Services will offer a luncheon from 12 to 1:30 p.m. in the Wilkinson Center ballroom.

Planned especially for the visitors, price of the roast beef luncheon plate will be $1.50. If students arrive with their bishops or stake presidents the group will be seated together. Reservations may be made by calling the University Relations Department.

Areas where bishops and stake presidents may meet students from their regions will be printed in Thursday's Universe. Tours of the campus will be available throughout the day.

In connection with visitor's day, BYU Hobby Center will hold its annual Ho-ho-ho and Crafts Show from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. All crafts, from mosaics to woodwork and carpentry will be represented.

HOBBY SALE

Many items will be on sale to the public. All crafts displayed have been completed in the hobby shop this year by students. Photographs developed and printed in the hobby shop darkrooms will also be displayed.

The movie "Those Magnificent Men in Their Flying Machines" will have regular showings throughout the day in the Varsity Theater.

Merlin Olsen . . .

Star Helps Children

All-pro football player Merlin Olsen talked about non-violence in his telelecture series Tuesday.

"Promoting patriotism and respect for law and the aim of a Non-Violence Youth Group now in the萌芽 stages, he said, will be the audience in the Varsity Theater.

Sponsored by a group of professional athletes and backed by the federal government, the organization will be geared toward helping the children of underdeveloped sections of large cities.

Olsen explained that such children look up to athletes and will listen to them when they tell of their rise from ghetto situations.

OLYMPIC BOYCOTT

When asked about the boycott on the Olympics by Negro athletes, the grid standout for the Los Angeles Rams said he "felt badly about using the Olympics as a political football."

On the subject of the National Football League, Olsen commented that Atlanta and New Orleans could win the championships.

An all-American at Utah State University, the giant defensive tackle said the students there "looked younger and smaller" now.

"Of course, maybe the pros have warped my idea of what an average individual looks like," he quipped.

DOUGLAS R. MCKINLAY
... 1968 Student Directory editor

McKinlay Appointed

Douglas R. McKinlay, a senior Communications major from Provo, has been appointed editor and business manager of the Student Directory for 1968-69.

The Student Publications Board announced the selection this week.

McKinlay has held various positions on the Daily Universe advertising staff, including proofreader, salesman and layout manager.

He said Tuesday that he hopes to improve on the outstanding job done on the directory in the past few years as much as possible.

POLL INVALID

Because of the lack of response to last Friday's opinion poll concerning student preference of the 1968 presidential candidates, the results cannot be considered as majority opinion.

Famed Papyri To Be Displayed

Three plates of the famed Joseph Smith papyri, recently acquired by the LDS Church, will be on display in the Clark Library

Girl Writers Sought

Critics have noted that a puzzlingly large number of the great American short story writers of this century are women.

Katharine Anne Porter, Eudora Welty, Shirley Jackson, Jean Stafford, Carson McCullers, Shirley Ann Grau—the list is long and impressive. And now the BYU English Department wants to add to that list.

Specifically, the English Department is looking for short stories by BYU coeds. Any girl now a student at BYU is encouraged to enter the E. C. Carroll Contest, named in honor of a former professor and writer in the department. Contest deadline is Thursday, April 25.

Stories should be typed, double-spaced, and between 2,000 and 8,000 words long. Contestants are asked to mark their manuscripts "Carroll Contest" and submit them to the English Department Secretary, room A-265 JKB. Include name and address on manuscript or envelope.

The winning author and those achieving honorable mention will be guests at the annual English Awards Banquet in May and will receive their awards then.

UNIVERSE JOBS

Applications are now being accepted for University Staff positions for this summer and next year, and interested persons may apply in 338 Wilkinson Center.

Newly appointed editor-in-chief Glen Willardson said previous experience on the Universe is not necessary, but a person should have journalism experience.

during BYU's Bishop's and State Presidents Day Thursday.

This annual day for bishops and state presidents to visit with their members from home precedes each General Conference. This spring the visiting church leaders will be able to see the much talked-of, much-photographed papyri in the Pioneer and Special Collections Room, fourth floor of the Library.

Also on display will be BYU's rare collection of Incunabula (books printed in the first 50 years of the printing-press' existence). Seventeen of these pre-1500 books will be on display representing nine out of the 10 major printers who were first taught by Gutenberg. The German printer himself is represented by a leaf from his famous Bible.

Among the books are a 1498 Praga missel 37 centimeters high and one of the first illustrated editions of Dante's Divine Comedy with hand-carved and hand-colored woodcuts dating from 1487; an elaborately ornamented Nuremberg Bible printed by Koberger in 1490 with three-inch illustrated initial letters; and a completely-preserved Speculum Morale with the original binding and brass clasps and gold leaf decorations on the pages laid on egg-white.

Other objects in the Pioneer Room during the Bishops Day include a small cuneiform tablet from Ur in Babylon dating from 2055 B.C. 1000 years before the Joseph Smith papyri were written, dealing with "various types of houses"; 16th century Buddhist scripture ("sutras") in Chinese; and the earliest dated piece of printing called the dharani, one of a million, a Sanskrit prayer a Chinese Empress printed in 770 A.D.

The visit to the Library will be sandwiched between a special student assembly featuring the University Chorale, Symphony Orchestra, a speech by President Ernest L. Wilkinson, a Ballroom Dance team exhibition and a Program Bureau variety show.

After the show, the church leaders will visit with students and attend a special sessions on standards, and financial, admission and draft problems plus a special movie and concert.

THE SPIRIT

Editor:

This letter is directed to the administration and particularly those in charge of on-campus housing and its regulations.

We hear a lot about the "spirit of the law" but see it practiced very little. My fiance lives in Heritage Halls and needless to say I visit her quite regularly. But, there is one problem, my watch doesn't always agree with the one that counts and I am sometimes 30 seconds late in leaving.

Consequently my fiance, not me is punished by being campus (grounded for an evening). This sounds like something a father would do to his high school daughter who got in late through no fault of her own.

I am not finding fault with the dorm parents they are only doing their job. But why is their job so strict and unwavering?

We are supposed to be adult college students, so give us a chance to let the Honor Code work in all phases of our lives without standing over us with a stop watch and a summons to family council. This develops only resentment and surprise at your inability to trust us.

"... for the letter killeth, but the spirit giveth life."

Gary K. Allen

Editor's Note: Darn good point.

IRRESPONSIBLE

Editor:

Do you realize the responsibility of the position you hold? The students at BYU have delegated you the power and authority of informing the world concerning our beliefs, convictions, and proclamations.

This is not a high school newspaper. It does not have a small circulation. Because of the worldwide membership of the LDS Church, it is possible thousands of people could be influenced by that which appears in our newspaper.

Frequently, the articles in the Daily Universe have been influenced by the biases of you and your staff. By allowing this to happen, you have not lived up to the expectations of your office. It would be nice to see the news printed in the Daily Universe as it happens.

Because to be of the poll report you allowed to be printed, many people will believe that Senator Kennedy is the presidential choice of the BYU student body. This may very well be the case. But, with only 400 students out of at least 20,000 voting, the following statement appeared in our newspaper: "Yesterday's opinion poll . . . showed Senator Robert Kennedy to be a strong vote-getter among BYU students."

The number of voters was purposely omitted (according to one of your staff members).

Our country is facing problems this election year before. It is my opinion this has been caused to like your own. For our school, please take upon self the responsibility in the office you hold.

Time To Vote

Students, get out and vote. Be involved and become politically active.

Many a student has responded to this plea by saying, "What does it matter? The Administration has all the power."

Other remarks were like these: "Why should I support the ego betterment of BYU's social clique? Why should I waste my time for their acquisition of power and prominence?"

There is truth in all of these arguments. However, we have been granted the basics of democracy.

The power of the free vote ought not be ignored. If you want more student power and student overseeing of themselves, voting and actively supporting the candidate of your choice is good for a start.

If you want to see these "social cliques" absolved, then get out and change it by running or supporting those who aren't necessarily in this category.

While the office seeker benefits from the position he hopes to obtain, you will also see we as students can benefit substantially from the labor exerted by those people in our behalf.

While it's true that there is not sufficient time to get acquainted with the candidates and their issues before the primaries or the final elections, abstaining from voting will solve little.

The greater interest we as students take, the more active role we can assume in our own political spectrum. This will determine the extent of our authority and power at self government.

If we can't reach a greater level of activity in student body elections, we expect the Administration to grant greater responsibility when the students don't exhibit sufficient interest in the powers possessed by our present leaders.

A few years ago the Church Mission Committee adopted a slogan for the entitled: "Every member a missionary."

Their design was to get the entire membership involved and active in the cause of proselyting and conversion.

The design of the Universe and the student government is likewise to take part in the power that will be for them for the next year.

We strongly urge you to get involved. This is your chance to change or protest the policies of your student government.

We again advise you to sift the issues, the candidates, and their policies at the achieving the real as opposed to the campaign slogans.

We urge you to challenge these issues.

We urge you to then make emotional choices—based on the basis for the job in question.

A charming personality with power will not necessarily spend your money to make important decisions any better than a candidate equally qualified in areas.

So, do become involved. It does pay. They do care. Don't let the rain or the become an excuse. O.K.?

We urge you to take this opportunity and VOTE.

Mormons In Show Biz

By Camilla Miner
Culture Editor

Last week Melva Niles and Robert Peterson, Broadway performers, auditioned The Sounds of Freedom, BYU singing group.

The two performers, with producer Clifford J. Barborka, Jr., Miss Niles husband, and Jack Earl Dawson of the CBS Television Network, are in Utah in preparation for a concert Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Valley Music Hall. Brent Johnson is their pianist.

The entertainment group is especially fascinating to BYU students because all five are strong members of the LDS Church.

Mrs. Barborka played the lead role, Solis, in "Maggdalena" on Broadway. She also co-starred with Walter Slezak and Mitzl Gaynor in the West Coast production of "The Great Waltz."

Bob Peterson has starred in many summer stock productions and replaced Robert Goulet as Lancelot in the Broadway production of "Camelot."

Dawson, the director, knew both singers, so selected them to record an album of "Things Lovely," sacred music. The two then began their partnership.

Brent Johnson, their 21-year-old accompanist is a former winner of the National Farm Bureau talent search. The group met him in Maine while he was still on a mission. According to Barborka, they were so impressed with his talent they put off going on tour until January after he had completed his mission.

The couple sing top tunes in a completely reorchestrated program.

Parents of two sons, 18 and 15, the Barborkas are converts.

Told how one can stay in show business and still keep his testimony, Barborka said one must be totally committed, have a strong testimony and project the Gospel everywhere he went.

Tribute will be paid to temporarily Mormon members of the Oratorio Choir-Utah Symphony concert tomorrow, April 15 p.m. at Jonson Concert Hall.

The Utah Valley Symphony, under the direction of Dr. William D. Williams, will play "And He Waxed Strong," by Dr. Jong, Jr., dean emeritus of the College of Fine Arts and professor of languages. It is characterized by its vigorous and scoring and the surprising patterns.

Athlete Of The Week...

Alarotu High In The Sky

By Glen Willardson

Sports Editor

Several unidentified flying objects have been reported in Provo last month and almost all of them can be traced to a flying Altti Alarotu.

At Saturday Altti soared 17 1/2 inches to break a school record in the BYU Invitational from Jamajiru, Finland. Alarotu has been vaulting competitively for four years. He currently holds the Finnish outdoor record for the American indoor for vaulting.

Altti was eager to come to the United States where he could vault against what he considers "the best pole vaulters in the world."

He hesitates to mention how he will do in the NCAA meet this year, because the field will be strong in pole vaulters.

Included in this group are Paul Wilson (17-3 1/2) and Bob Seagren (17-7) of Southern California; Christopher Papancolas (from San Jose State who has gone 17-4 1/2), UCLA's Jonathan Vaughn (17-1) and Erick Mustakari of Fresno State, who is also from Finland and has vaulted 16-10 1/2.

POPULAR SPORT

Altti got use to jumping—not in the pole vault pits—but on the jumps in Finland. The most popular Finnish sports are skiing (winter) and track (summer). Soccer and basketball follow close behind.

When he took up pole vaulting, Altti dropped skiing and devoted his time to excelling in vaulting.

"Coach Robison is a good coach," Altti says. "He has helped me a lot." The English language hasn't been easy to learn, but he is learning fast.

Breaking the school record has given Altti great satisfaction, but he looks to the future and raises his hand high saying, "higher, higher."

There's likely to be more unidentified objects reported in Provo skies in the future.

BYU pole vaulter gets a helpful tip from track coach Clarence Robison. Alarotu jumped 17 feet, 1 1/2" Saturday.
